A San Francisco Ghost Story

Friday neon Edwin Russell, a prominent real estate broker, who was at one time president of the British Bank at Portland, Ore., and whose father is master of Birmingham Hal', England, died of apoplexy at San Francisco. Three hours later his ghost appeared before Harry W. Reeves, leader of St. Luke's choir, of which Russell was a member. It was while he was arranging the music for Sunday's service that the ap-parition appeared. Reeves relates his ex-partition appeared. Reeves relates the experience in the following words:

"I went into my room and lay down on the lounge, then by an impulse I cannot account for I walked to the door. The head of the stairway was somewhat dimly lighted, but not so dimly but what I could at once see what appeared to be the figure of Russell. It was so real, so lifelike, that it cannot stopped forward and stretched out. at once stepped forward and stretched out my hand and was about to speak some words of welcome. The figure seemed to Agent for "THE WHALL CHIEBS" all-steel, have a roll of music is one hand and the STEEL PLOWS, the "NEW STEVENS" all-steel, have a roll of music is one hand and the other over its face, but it was Russel', I am quito sure. As I advanced to the head of the stairway the figure seemed to turn about as if to descend and faded into the air. I remember trying to speak to it, but my tongue clung to the roof of my mouth. Then I fell against the wall and gasped out:
O, my God!' My stater and nicce, with some other folks, came up. My nicce said: Uncle Harry, what's the matter?' I went on to explain what I was so scared that I could hardly epeak. My niece said: 'Don't you know Russei is dead?' Well, that par-alized me. It only made matters worse, and I nearly fainted."

> BIG SNAPPING TURTLES IN A WHEEL PIT. Something in the wheel pit at Cook's Mille, Prestontown, Conn, the other day, made the wheel gurgle, wheeze, and clatter, so the mill man sbut off the water and the ma-chinery stopped. Then the water mostly cozed out of its pit. He and his man went down into the dark hole to see what the matter was. Lying on their faces, they gazed into the gloom, and heard something creak and splash about in the wet pit. Two big snapping turtles were in the bole, and they appeared to share the miller's desire that in some way they might be gotten out. The neighbors railied at the mill, and after a good deal of work and by means of tackles and ropes the beasts were helsted out of the pit. One turtle weighed 43 pounds, the other 37. But in getting out of their plight they only stepped from the wheel pit into frying-tan, for a Prestontown man, who is fond of fried turtle, cooked them. He tied a cord to each of them, and innovently they waddled home with him.

> GHOSTLY INDICATIONS OF CRIME -A haunted house is excising people of the city of Decorab, Ia., and promises to disclose a tragedy of the darkest kind. The house was occupied by a young woman and a man named Johnson. The woman gave birth to a child which was disposed of some meaus, as yet unknown. Shortly af-ter this a woman's screams were heard in the house, and sluce then no one has been seep or heard on the premises. This was three months ago. The household goods remain untouched. It is thought by the authorities that both the woman and babe wers murdered by Johnson. An apparition has been eeen, it is alleged, by a num-ber of the best people of the city, large crowds congregating near the house night ly. Investigation is being made.
